Cost: CSU Trustees set the tuition fees charged to all enrolled in the regular program. The campus sets additional fees. Nonresidents of California pay these costs plus higher tuition. Tuition fees differ for undergraduate and graduate students. In 2009, the CSU instituted a professional fee for state-supported MBA and similar business graduate programs. Doctoral students pay a higher tuition fee, on a par with those attending the University of California. Passage of Proposition 30 on Nov. 6 rolled back the state university tuition fee to 2011-12 levels, retroactive to the fall 2012 semester.

Spring 2013 tuition fees:

- $3,091: undergraduates enrolled in 7 or more units
- $1,942: undergraduates enrolled in 6 or fewer units
- $3,724: graduate students enrolled in 7 or more units
- $2,308: graduate students enrolled in 6 or fewer units
- $254: additional cost per unit for graduate students in the Mihaylo College of Business & Economics
- $3,529: credential program students enrolled in 7 or more units
- $2,197: credential program students enrolled in 6 or fewer units
- $5,914: doctor of education; $7,525: doctor of nursing practice
- Nonresident and international students pay the tuition and fees required of California residents plus $372 per unit per semester. Such a student enrolled in 15 units in fall 2012 is charged $8,671 (undergraduate) or $9,304 (graduate) for a semester of study.
- Tuition and fees vary by program for students enrolled in fall, spring and summer extension courses and Intersession.

National Rankings: U.S. News & World Report (September 2012) ranks CSUF No. 5 among “Top Public Regional Universities” and 31st among “Best Regional Universities” in the West.

Diverse Issues in Higher Education (June 2012) ranks CSUF eighth in the nation in terms of baccalaureate degrees awarded to minority students, based on data from the U.S. Department of Education.

Hispanic Outlook in Higher Education (May 2013) ranks CSUF No. 1 in California and eighth in the nation among top colleges and universities awarding bachelor’s degrees to Hispanics, based on 2011 data from the U.S. Department of Education.

Princeton Review’s Best 296 Business Schools (2013 edition) includes the Steven G. Mihaylo College of Business and Economics, the state’s largest accredited business college.

The Templeton Guide: Colleges That Encourage Character Development lists CSUF’s Student Leadership Institute among “Exemplary Programs” in the student leadership category.

Facilities: The main campus encompasses 29 permanent buildings building clusters, including new student housing (1,084 residents) and the 585-seat Gastronome dining complex. Other recent additions include the Children’s Center, the Student Recreation Center, Steven G. Mihaylo Hall and the University Police and Emergency Operations Center. Other major campus structures include the Joseph Clayes III Performing Arts Center, Paulina June & George Pollak Library, Titan Student Union — which has a 1,200-seat events pavilion, small theater, food court, pub, bowling alley and conference rooms.

A wing added to the Kinesiology and Health Science Building in 2003 includes the Center for Successful Aging. The Charles L. and Rachel E. Ruby Gerontology Center is home to the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute. The 10-story College Park building on Nutwood Avenue houses the College of Communications and College of Education, and provides additional classrooms and office space for staff and faculty. Three parking structures — completed in 2004, 2006 and 2010 — provide parking for about 5,500 vehicles, expanding the overall number of campus parking spaces to more than 11,300.

Branch Campus and Other Satellites: The CSUF Irvine Campus near the Irvine Spectrum offers mostly upper-division and graduate-level courses in a convenient location for students who live and work in southern Orange County. Other campus satellites include the Grand Central Art Center in Santa Ana and CSUF Garden Grove Center.

Fullerton Arboretum: The Fullerton Arboretum, developed with the city of Fullerton, is located at the northeast corner of campus and is open to the public. Heritage House, built in 1894 and moved to the 26-acre preserve in 1972, is a historical museum. A visitor and conference center includes a museum devoted to the agricultural history of Orange County and the contributions of Japanese-Americans.

Fullerton Marriott: A full-service hotel opened in 1989 on the southeast corner of the main campus in a project involving the Marriott Corp., the city of Fullerton and the university.

Titan Sports Complex: Revenue from the hotel venture was used to establish the Titan Sports Complex in 1992, featuring Titan Stadium (10,000 seats), Goodwin Field (3,500 seats), Anderson Field for softball, a track and full-sized soccer field.

Intercollegiate Athletics: Men’s programs are NCAA Division I baseball (2004, 1995, 1984 and 1979 national championships), basketball, cross country, golf, soccer, and track and field.

Division I women’s sports are basketball, cross country, golf, indoor and outdoor track and field, soccer, softball (1986 national championship), tennis and volleyball.

Titans and the University Mascot: Students adopted the Titans as the school’s nickname in 1959. The association of the elephant with the university dates to a student-organized “Day of the Titan” celebration in the early 1960s featuring an intercollegiate elephant race that drew 10,000 spectators, 15 pachyderms and copious publicity, and led to the adoption of the elephant to symbolize the Titans. Tuffy is the name given to the particular elephant that serves as the university’s mascot, and appears in costumed form at campus events and games and in cartoon form in print and online. As the university mascot, Tuffy is a Titan, and is often referred to as Tuffy the Titan or just Tuffy.

Cultural Events: The College of the Arts presents a wide variety of cultural attractions showcasing student and faculty talent, and guest artists. Associated Students Productions events include noon concerts in Becker Amphitheater, singers and comedians in The Pub and celebrity performers in Portola Pavilion.

Philanthropy: The Cal State Fullerton Philanthropic Foundation oversees the management of philanthropic gifts to the university. Its Board of Governors focuses its expertise, oversight and advocacy on enhancing private support for California State University, Fullerton.

Support Groups: CSUF maintains a large network of support groups. These include: the President’s Associates, CSUF Alumni Association, Art Alliance, Colleagues of the College of Natural Sciences and Mathematics, Emeriti, Friends of the Fullerton Arboretum, MAMM Alliance for the Performing Arts, Music Associates, Osher Lifelong Learning Institute, Patrons of the Library, Association of the Friends and Docents of the Anthropology Museum, Reading Educators Guild, Titan Advocates and Titan Athletic Club.

Parking: University parking is self-supported by fees charged to all students, faculty and staff members. Visitor parking is available for a daily fee of $8. Thirty-minute visitor parking is free in designated areas. Parking is free on weekends. Special-event parking fees of $8 are charged for all home baseball and men’s basketball games.
